Member companies include market-leading small businesses, many significant public and private sector organisations and associations, through to some of Australia's largest companies. The SAUG offers unparalleled benefits to people with an investment in SAP's solutions.

Increase your SAP knowledge, skills and personal value.

Networking

Whether attending the major Plenary Sessions, being active in Special Interest Groups or participating in discussion forums or web meetings, members have many opportunities for sharing information and networking across the SAP community. A global agreement with Americas' SAP Users' Group allows SAUG member companies access to their website, presentations and participation in discussion forums.

As your SAP knowledge, expertise and skills grow; so too does your own ability and the value you contribute to your own organisation and the wider SAP community.

The format for regular free Plenary Sessions is comprised of presentations, workshops and hands-on sessions. SAUG members, SAP solution experts, business partners and independent industry experts conduct these sessions. Topics can range from common interest in new and existing product areas, solutions to key legislative initiatives and other issues selected by the membership. All Plenary Sessions are free of charge to members.

Knowledge

Learn from your SAP peers through attending Plenary Sessions, Special Interest Group meetings and many online events held across the country each year.

Special Interest Groups (SIGs) are forums that focus upon a specific solution or topic within the SAP environment. The aim of Special Interest Groups is to provide in-depth knowledge and education on a particular theme. SIGs provide a perfect forum for resolving that key issue your project or business might be struggling with.

For members unable to attend a Plenary or SIG meeting, SAUG provides on-line access to events where you can participate fully from the convenience of your home or office, anywhere with access to the Internet and a phone.

Accelerate your own and your company's education process.

Through the SAUG's programs, newsletters and website members receive regular updates on new SAP products and solutions, including technical and development tips as well as access to analyst reports written by industry experts. You are also kept in touch through access to the many links on the SAUG website, information on past and future events, special offers and copies of presentations and reports.

These unique membership opportunities offer you and your company the opportunity to be at the forefront of your field.

Gain unprecedented access to key SAP management, industry experts and technical developers.
